FAT BOY DIET

How To Shed Excess Flesh And Like It

By ELMER WHEELER

This is the story of a Fatso in his 40s who bounced up to 230 pounds, lost his pep, vigor, sex and honeymoon figure..

Then got incensed when a fresh clerk sent him to the Fat Men's Department for a shirt and a medico ridiculed his gallery of calories—so angry that he took off 40 pounds!

I've read a lot about why us fatties get fat. Real scientific stuff. Some doctors say the real reason is due to breakdown. We eat to have something to do..

Other diet experts say insecurity in life prompts us to overindulge. They claim this is inherent in us from babyhood when we rushed to our mother's breast at the first sign of fright.

Of course there are some people who think I got fat because I ate too much food and that I ate too much food simply because it tasted so good.

* * *

BEFORE the Lavish '40s (not my 40s—the 1940s), dieting was always easy for me. I was an expert at it. Why, I used to practice at dieting three or four times a year!

After every lazy vacation; after every gall bladder attack; after every insurance rejection; before each Thanksgiving dinner, I dieted.

Then the Boom sneaked up on me.

Life was gay, parties numerous, food and liquids generously offered in the Feverish '40s.

* * *

MY NECKBAND, once a neat 16, went to a tight 17.

Well, that didn't worry me. I just took this is proof that wartime shirts weren't shrink-proof like the prewar ones had been.

I went into a shirt store to complain about it. A fancy clerk measured the neckband on my shirt and assured me it hadn't shrunk, and that I was now a neat 18!

* * *

"YOU'LL FIND size 18 in the Fat Men's Department," he said, daintily pointing the way with a well-manicured finger.

I was halfway there before the full force of what he had said struck me. I did a slow burn.

Me, old Muscles Elmer, former athlete at the "Y," Eagle Scout, shunted off to the Fat Men's Department.

* * *

I was so ashamed I almost lost my appetite . . . almost..

Even so, I made myself the old familiar, easy promise. Tomorrow I'd start dieting.

Sure, tomorrow's the day again.

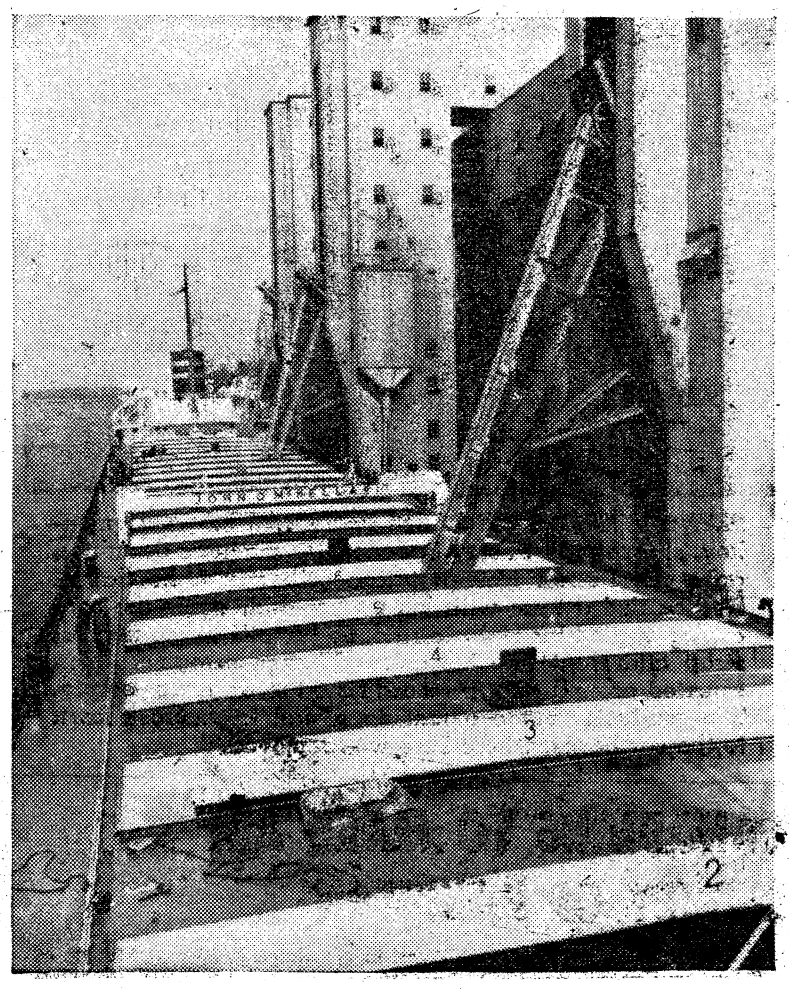
Margarine production during the first eight months of this year totalled 67¼ million pounds, compared with nearly 69 million in the same months last year.



FRESH FROM THE GRAINBELT — The largest cargo of Canadian grain ever carried across the Great Lakes by ship was unloaded from Canada's biggest lake steamer, the 678-foot John O. McKellar into Canadian Pacific Railway grain elevators at Port McNicoll recently. The vessel's arrival at the Georgian Bay port marked the beginning of large grain shipments eastward as western farmers harvest the biggest crop ever grown, an estimated 1,250,000,000 bushels of all types of grain. Over 20,500 tons of wheat and barley, part of this year's crop and enough to fill 410 railway box cars were unloaded from the lake ship to await transfer to eastern ports by rail. — Canadian Pacific Railway Photo.

SCRAP METAL FROM ALBERTA FARMS NEEDED

Scrap metal dealers are scouring Alberta farms for batteries, radiators, or anything made out of copper or brass.

The market for scrap metal, along with most everything else today, has become inflated, with high prices being paid for metals, junk dealers report.

But only a portion of the scrap market is active. There's no demand for scrap iron or ferrous metals of any kind.

Non-ferrous metals, however, are much in demand. Dealers are paying 15 cents a pound for old radiators, and around $2 for car and radio batteries.

As most of Canada's scrap metal is export, market conditions in the United States affect prices here. Due to defence production in the States, demand is high for scrap.

Edmonton dealers have been shipping as much as 10 carloads of scrap a month to eastern plants, but with the coming of winter this has fallen off somewhat.

The role of the scrap metal dealer today is more important than most people realize.

The scrap metal dealer is helping to keep the nation's industrial machine strong by supplying essential materials—materials often in short supply.

In fact, for every pound of new metal being produced, there's half a pound of scrap metal flowing back into the nation's manufacturing plants.

And the federal department of defence production is sufficiently interested in collection of scrap metal to require dealers to make a monthly report to Ottawa outlining stocks on hand.

Most scrap collected in Alberta comes from the farms. Dealers estimate only 20 per cent of the scrap they handle comes from Edmonton or Calgary.

With scrap metal the important business it is today, anyone with "junk" around the house or farm, can pick up extra change and make a contribution to Canada's defence effort and industrial welfare by selling their scrap.

Dominion Government Conducts Survey Of Lac la Biche Area

LAC LA BICHE — Under a wide range plan of the Dominion Government, to determine the magnetic density over the Canadian terrain, thus establishing a better concept of Canada's mineral wealth, and also for the purpose of publishing magnetic contour maps which will be invaluable for the exploration of mineral wealth, a geophysical instrument station has been set up at Lac la Biche. Operations of these instruments are conducted by T. G. Ling, F. A. Baldwin, R. Landry and A. Y. Smith, who have established a temporary "control room" in the Catholic rectory here. Their permanent headquarters, of course, is Ottawa.

The actual work being done by the Dominion Government Geophysical field branch in regard to the above was summarized by Mr. T. G. Ling, in an interview, as follows:

"During this past summer the Geophysics section of "Geophysical Survey of Canada," which is a division of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, completed a petroleum reconnaisance survey by air over the northern part of this province.

"Such a survey is made possible through the employment of a newly developed electronic instrument known as the "Airborne Magnometer," which measures the intensity of the earth's magnetic field.

"In spite of the flexibility of this newly developed technique of magnetic survey, namely speed, and the ability to traverse otherwise inaccessible terrain; there exists a confronting phenomina known as "magnetic storm condition." Such conditions are due to disturbances within the earth's magnetic field. Thus it can be understood, that when a magnetic storm is in progress the survey is temporarily held up because the measured intensity would be other than the true value.

"For the past few weeks members of the Geophysics field staff, under the direction of Mr. F. P. DeVernet, has been conducting a magnetic storm observation with establishments at Ft. McMurray, Smith, and Lac la Biche, Alberta. The object of this observation is to determine the nature of these storms, namely whether or not they occur simultaneously over a given area, and are of equal magnitude.

"The data arrived at from this observation will be utilized in conjunction with the design of new equipment for Ground to Air Synchronization."

Mr. Ling also stated that when this new equipment is perfected it will enable surveys to be completed much faster and more efficiently, giving a more true picture of the actual magnetic density in any given area. This will greatly reduce expense and time involved in surveys of the northern regions where violent magnetic storm conditions are known to exist, due perhaps to the proximity of the pole.

FARMING SUGGESTIONS

CARE AT CALVING TIME:

R. P. Dixon, Supervisor of Dairy Herd Improvement, Alberta Department of Agriculture, says that a whole years profit on a cow may hinge on the care she gets at calving time. Normal calving starts the cow off on a year with a healthy well developed calf as an extra dividend. A cow that is neglected may give birth to a dead calf or suffer injuries that will reduce her milk production.

Fall freshening cows are often given a mimimum of attention because of the busy harvest season, but a few precautions will pay the dairyman big dividends. Keep the cow near the farm buildings so that she can be watched for any signs of difficult delivery, advised Mr. Dixon. If the weather is unfavourable, a dry, roomy, well bedded stall inside the barn. Adequate supply of fresh dirnking water, choice quality legume hay, and a laxative ration, preferably one rich in bran, should be provided.

POULTRY PRECAUTIONS:

A few timely poultry measures are suggested by F. J. Higginson, Acting Poultry Commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture. If your pullets commence to lay while on the range, he says, a few nests should be provided by each range shelter. This will encourage the birds to lay in nests and will later discourage the annoying habit of laying on the floor after the birds have been confined to the laying house.

Don't make any change in feeding until after the birds are laying about 35 per cent, then change over gradually to laying or breeding mash or whatever feed you intend to use for the season.

Check the birds for parisites before moving them into the laying house, advises Mr. Higginson. For internal parasites give each bird a worm pill when moving them from the range. This will ensure each bird receiving treatment, and will save the trouble of handling the birds a second time.

For external parasites use Nicotine Sulphate Roost Paint, commonly referred to as Black Leaf 40. A small amount painted along the top of the roost just before roosting time is sufficient. The warmth from the bird's body causes fumes to rise through the feathers killing the parasites. This treatment should be repeated in about 10 days time to destroy any parasites that may have hatched after the treatment.

HOME STORAGE SPACE:

Only by providing enough storage space can a housewife hope to keep her home orderly, says Miss Caroline Judson, Home Designing Specialist, Alberta Department of Agriculture. When a family starts to plan a house, ample closet and storage space should be included, but something happens, usually, before the house is completed. The closets and storage units disappear to save expenses. The family would be better off with one less room, and more storage space.

Examine the house plan room by room to assure yourselves that the storage space provided is adequate for present and future needs, advises Miss Judson. In the kitchen, besides the usual layout of kitchen cupboards for utensils and food supplies, there should be space for linens, recipe books, picnic baskets, vases, etc. In the back hall there should be a cleaning closet for the vacuum, brooms, mops and cleaning supplies, and a clothes closet for work clothes, work boots and winter coats.

The bathroom should be large enough to accomodate a linen closet and a medicine cabinet. Each bedroom should have a large clothes closet (at least 6 sq. ft. of storage space for each person occupying the room). The closet should be at least 2 ft. deep and have a hanging rod 6 ft. from the floor. This closet could be simply hanging space or could provide built-in drawer space. The latter arrangement eliminates the need of buying expensive pieces of bedroom furniture to provide storage space.

The living area, too, should be planned for storage space. Where would you put card tables, games, hobbies, records, musicl instruments if adequate built-in units were not included in the design of the family room.

WINTERING BEES:

Sucess in wintering bees is not difficult if we have a strong colony of bees housed in a double brood chamber with the lower one containing four or five combs of pollen and the upper one full of honey. There are many estimates about the amount of honey a hive should have for winter, says Alberta's Provincial Apiarist, W. G. leMaistre, but experience over many winters has taught us that a full super, probably 50 pounds, is generally needed.

Pollen is collected by bees from flowers and stored in the hive to use as food for brood. It is the protein in the diet just as meat and eggs are major sources of protein in our diets. If and when bees start rearing fresh brood they must have pollen available to them. Since this brood rearing may begin in winter and almost certainly will begin before any fresh pollen can be gathered, four or five combs of pollen should be in every hive that is being wintered.

Hives should be insulated with 3 or 4 inches of straw or shavings all around and have 10 inches of insulation on top, says Mr. LeMaistre. They should be provided with upper entrances and situated in a sheltered location. A useful bulletin, "Wintering Bees in Alberta," is available on request from the Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

LOOK AHEAD!

Provide for the future by harvesting all the feed possible, advises A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commisioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture. In years of plenty, reserves supplies of feed must be stored to meet adverse conditions of the future. This year's abundant growth in almost every part of the province provides an excellent opportunity to build up feed reserves.

Cutting part of the grain crop with the binder so that stacks of straw may be available for roughage and bedding is a practice followed by many livestockmen throughout Alberta. While straw can not be considered good feed, it does provide that safety measure necessary when other crops fail. Where swathing and combining alone are practiced, bunching of the straw with a tractor-mounted sweep, or baling behind the combine, are other means of accumulating feed reserves. In a year of plenty, reserves may appear of little value, but in times of need they may mean life or death to the livestock industry.

In this year of abundant pasture, hay and straw, don't be so ruled by the spirit of optimism that you fail to make full use of the crops provided, advises Mr. Wilson.

Young Ideas

In a parked car a boy about eight was wildly twisting the wheel and uttering motorlike sounds. I watched him awhile, then leaned over and said, "Hey, bud, you better stick your arm out when you go around a curve or you'll get a ticket."

He regarded me scornfully. "Look, bub," he said, you stick your arm out of a space ship and you'll have it ripped off."

PETE'S HIJINKS JOLT TRAM PASSENGERS—This monkey, shown with Sherry Spooner, his master's daughter, gave the Detroit transportation company a headache. He boarded a tram with his master and, while the conductor argued his right to ride, he jumped to the nearest strap and went into his act. Women screamed, men scurried around and in record time the tram was empty. The conductor made a fast deadhead trip across town to the car barns, where Pete was removed.

CANADIANS TO MAKE AIR SURVEY OF PAKISTAN

(Based on material published in the August 29, 1952, issue of "Foreign Trade", weekly publication of the Foreign Trade Service, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, and departmental press releases.)

In November, twenty Canadians, some of them accompanied by their families, and two aircraft — a B-17 and a Lockheed-Hudson — will arrive in Pakistan. They constitute the vanguard of some 100 Canadians who will, over the next four years, carry out an important assignment as part of our contribution to the Colombo Plan.

Aerial photographers, laboratory technicians, photogrammetrists, "mosaickers," geologists—all these highly trained people will cooperate in preparing a detailed inventory of Pakistan's natural resources. When it is presented to the Pakistan Government about July, 1956, it will serve as the blueprint for future development.

It seems appropriate that Canada should undertake this inventory. Studying and mapping our own under-developed areas has given Photographic Survey Corporation Ltd., the company which has been awarded the contract, the know-how to tackle this big job. In the last few years, it has done extensive mapping and geological surveys for the Newfoundland Government and at the moment is mapping the whole Province of Alberta from the air. Working in a foreign country isn't new to it, either; it has carried out assignments in Central and South America and in the West Indies.

But this is one of the biggest jobs it has tackled and calls for coordinating the efforts of several hundred people, about 100 of them working in Pakistan and the others here in Canada. Step one is taking the pictures. Working along carefully plotted flight lines, crews of the two aircraft will photograph nearly 160,800 square miles of Pakistan. Each day's prints will be developed in miniature in a laboratory set up in Quetta; will be checked for accuracy and coverage of the area. Then the film goes to Toronto for more detailed processing.

At this point, the geologists take over. They study the prints and mark on them the geological structures which they find interesting. The "mosaickers" then combine these prints into rough mosaics of the various areas. And these mosaics, in turn, become guidebooks for the field parties of geologists who will study the terrain on the ground. This particular part of the job, incidentally, will begin about January, 1953, when the first batches of photographs begin to arrive from Pakistan.

The five working parties of geologists, with about six to eight in a party, will sail in November, 1953. They will start investigation as soon as they arrive, taking their rough mosiacs to the areas covered, checking on the interpretation, and gathering additional information on mineral resources. Two years later, they'll be back in Toronto with their findings.

Last of all comes the compiling of the report, a task that will take about six months. The geologists plot the results of their on-the-spot examinations on sketch maps to a scale of one mile to one inch. Then, under the supervision of the company's chief geologist, the final compilation will be prepared. Before the negatives are shipped to the Government of Pakistan, the director of the Surveys and Mapping Branch, Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, will probably inspect them to make certain that they come up to required specifications. A detailed geological report will accompany the maps and photographs.

This painstaking geological investigation with the object of pinpointing mineral resources does not comprise the whole survey. The company will also photograph and map areas suitable for irrigation projects and will make town planning and soil surveys.

Photos taken for these purposes will be sent to the Toronto office. There, using special equipment, technicians will "rectify" them, i.e., compensate for the tilt of the plane, and thus remove any distortion. Then the rectified prints will be fitted together into a "controlled mosaic."

As the troopship, laden with battlescared veterans of Korea pulled into the West Coast harbor, the happy sergeant said to Private Smith, "Well, farmer boy, are you glad you are going to hear the roosters crow and the old donkey bray again, eh?"

"It'll be mighty nice to hear the old donkey bray," replied the private. He added, "And not give orders."

PROSPECTS FOR SWEDEN'S TIMBER

The year 1951 might well be considered a record one in the history of the Swedish timber trade. The brisk demand—especially from Sweden's traditionally largest customer, Great Britain—produced towards the beginning of the year a surprising rise in prices. This in its turn contributed to increased production and increased offers of wood export. The total sawmill output in 1950, estimated at 1.5 million standards, increased in 1951 and approached the peak reached in the thirties—1.6 million standards. The latest expansion has occurred particularly at the sawmills. Total exports rose from 750 thousand standards in 1950 to approximately 850 thousand in 1951—a postwar record.

The year was marked also by the return of Great Britain as the leading foreign market (up from 93 thousand in 1950 to 330 thousand standards in 1951), and increased sales to other members of the Commonwealth and to Southeast Asia. In 1950 the Netherlands held first place as a buyer of these products (195 thousand standards against 140 thousand in 1951.)

The wallboard industry expanded its production from 275 thousand tons in 1950 to 330 thousand tons in 1951. Of this, 180 thousand tons were exported, 80 thousand tons going to Great Britain. Austrailia and the Netherlands were the next largest foreign markets.

There were no significant developments in the plywood industry. Domestic consumption grew to over half the output and exports remained stationery at approximately 16 thousand metric tons. Principal customers were Great Britain, Western Germany and Denmark.

Forecasts of the timber market for 1952 indicate somewhat lower production and exports than during 1951; in fact, exports are expected to decrease by 50 thousand standards. Financial difficulties in most of Sweden's customer countries are reducing building activity and the high wood prices make it difficult for them to import and use sawn timber. Of particular significance is the big cut in imports now signalled from Great Britain because of that country's unfavourable balance of payments. The reduction in British imports may be offset to a certain degree by increases in other markets, notably Western Germany, which this year may well advance to second place among Sweden's customers. France and Greece are also expected to buy more; the Netherlands and Denmark will probably take less. On the whole, there should be sufficient demand for the reduced quantities of wood which Sweden may be able to offer in 1952.

Plan Open House For Haven Of Rest

Open house by the end of September is the goal of two ministers and five Christian men who are planning a home for aged people, who would like to live in the country and enjoy the quiet life it affords. This home is quite rightly named as the Haven of Rest Home.

On the committee who are undertaking this task are Rev. Norman McRae, president; Rev. M. Chugg, Mr. Stan McCrae, secretary; Mr. Milo Melvin, Mr. Boyce Greene, Mr. H. Cormish, and Mrs. N. Turnbull, a registered nurse.

Cottages which will accommodate four people will be built on a five-acre plot, and sixteen acres adjacent to this will be used to grow produce, raise cattle for milk and beef to supply the people. Plans are to care for 50 to 60 people. This home is in the Horse Hills Community.

Excavation is completed and as soon as it is possible a house recently bought will be moved over it and thus start the project off.

It is hoped to be a self-supporting project, Mr. McCrae stated, but at this time contributions from interested churches and persons would be fully appreciated. Mr. McCrae said that they could do with one or two single beds now, but it would be better to get in touch with some of the committee and so stop an over-abundance of some items.

Farmers Report Bumper Crops

OPAL — About two-thirds of the farmers in the district have completed their threshing and report the grain to be well on the dry side and the yield per acre very satisfactory. Most of the farmers were fortunate to have their grain cut before the heavier frost, thus giving it a well-matured kernel. One farmer stated that his Thatcher wheat averaged 50 bushels to the acre, although an odd few complain that barley yields are rather poor.

Snow Goose Nest

WASHINGTON — Robert H. Smith, veteran biologist with the Fish and Wild Life Service, has reported that the breeding grounds of most of the snow geese that use the Pacific Flyway is believed to have been discovered on Banks Island, in the Arctic Circle.

25 MILES OF PIPE TO BE LAID FROM REDWATER FIELD

REDWATER — Work has been started on laying 25 miles of special asbestos pipe to carry salt water from wells in the Redwater field to three or four central disposal wells by the newly-formed Redwater Disposal Co. Cost of laying the pipe, which must be below the frost line, has been placed at approximately $1,500,000.

The pipe, shipped through from Port Credit, Ontario, is of special construction in order to withstand salt water action.

One of the problems of the Redwater field is said to be the amount of salt water brought up with the oil, which has to be put back into the ground. At present this water is taken by tank truck to the disposal wells, but the new company will lay a network of pipes from the treaters to three or four disposal wells. One is located close outside of Redwater, with others in the Simmons and Amelia sections.

The network will be extended as the need arises. The company which has opened offices in Edmonton, is composed of representatives from several oil companies operating in this field.

Badly Gored By Mad Cow

LETHBRIDGE — An employee of the Alberta Livestock Co., Ivan Kessler, about 42, was badly gored by a cow during an auction sale here.

He was taken to hospital where his condition was reported to be serious. The cow's horns raked his thigh and went up into his stomach.

Kessler was trying to herd the balky animal into the show ring when it turned on him. He was lifted on the animal's horns and then thrown to the ground.

Screen doors and windows should be painted before they are stored for the winter. Paint will protect them from rot or rust and they'll be ready when needed next spring.

How To Kill Perennial Weeds This Fall

Fall cultivation every ten days, during the harvest season, will in many instances irradicate Sow Thistle and Canada Thistle.

Sow Thistle and Canada Thistle, if left unlisturbed has enough food stored, and is protected enough to keep through the hardest of winters. Shallow discing contiued deeper each time will stir these plants to grow, and use up their food supply, gradually making them weaker, and early frosts will penetrate to the root systems, and by so doing would rid these plants.

Farmers who have patches of couch grass, should wait until frost begins crusting the ground. Then plow these patches setting your plow at about two inches below the soil surface. This brings up the roots of the grass, and the frost takes care of the rest, provided that snow does not cover it too soon.

Alberta Pentecostal Ministers, School Principal Attend Eastern Conference

MONTREAL — The 18th biennial 10-day national General Conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada will open in the Central French Pentecostal Church under the presidency of Rev. Campbell Bannerman Smith, of Victoria, B.C., General Superintendent, who recently returned from England where he headed the Canadian delegation at the Third World Conference of Pentecostal Churches.

The General Conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada will be attended by some 200 voting delegates, plus non-voting observers. All ordained ministers have voting rights, in addition to three lay delegates from each of the seven District Conferences across Canada, special representatives from the 12 overseas mission fields, and women ministers who hold credentials known as "Ministerial License for Women," — a limited form of ordination for women who are preachers in their own right.

The most important conference business will be the election of a new General Superintendent to succeed Rev. C. B. Smith, who resigned last March after 8 years of office to accept the pastorate of Glad Tidings Tabernacle, Victoria, B.C.

Other important items on the agenda are: the orientation of missionary policy in view of present day nationalism and the transference of leadership to nationals at the earliest date; the extension of present publishing facilities at home and abroad to meet the challenge of the new era of literacy in "mission countries" to pre-empt this vacuum with sound Christian literature before the Communists fill it with subversive literature; academic standards of the five denominational Bible colleagues and institutes in Canada; and the relation of the denomination to ecumenical movements.

Highlights at the opening Thursday night service (Sept. 11) will include the reading of greetings to the conference from Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent, and greetings from other dignitaries, and a non-political address by Rev. the Honorable P. A. Gaglardi, Minister of Public Works in the British Columbia Provincial Government and pastor of Calvary Temple, the P.A.O.C. congregation in Kamloops, B.C.

A distinguished overseas visitor will be Rev. Nicholas Bhengu, a Bantu negro evangelist of Port Elizabeth, South Africa, who last Easter Sunday baptized 1300 adult believers by immersion in a single baptismal service. He will address the Friday night service, Sept. 12. Sunday, September 14, will feature a national broadcast over the 44 station Trans-Canada network of the CBC from 2:30 to 3 p.m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, originating in the St. James United Church, Montreal. The broadcast preacher will be Rev. C. B. Smith, who will be assisted by Rev. Emile Lassegues, pastor of the host conference church, and other ministers, representative of the national conference.

This is the third national gathering of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada in Montreal. The first, the constitutional conference of the organization met in Montreal in 1917 in a small McGill-College street mission hall, when the twelve ordained ministers in their role of charter members petitioned the Dominion Government for the legal recognition of the existing movement, which was enacted by Federal legislation two years later. The second gathering, a biennial General Conference, met in Montreal in 1928.

The organization has now grown to 540 affiliated congregations, plus 80 associated congregations with a membership of 100,000 in Canada, plus a larger number on the mission fields where it operates.

Leading Alberta delegates to the Montreal conference will be: Rev. S. R. Tilton of Red Deer, superintendent of the Alberta District of the P.A.O.C.; Rev. John Watt of Calgary, assistant district superintendent; and Rev. D. N. Buntain, principal of the Canadian Northwest Bible Institute of Edmonton.

Record Sized Potato Weighs Five Pounds

BON ACCORD — Mrs. Earl Wyman reports that she harvested some record sized potatoes. One potato weighed five pounds and others were over three pounds.

These large spuds were grown from seed eyes of the Columbia Russet variety. Mrs. Wyman stated that she got a plum case full of these potatoes from one hill.

Stocks of grain in country elevators in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta on September 18 totalled 142.5 million bushels, almost double the volume of grain held a year ago (72.3 million).

171 Crippled Children Helped By A.C.T. Fund

In the four years it has been in operation, the Associated Canadian Travellers Northern Alberta Crippled Children's Committee has provided financial assistance to 171 needy crippled children, C. S. McNabb, retiring chairman of the committee stated Sunday. Cross expenditures for this purpose are $48,208, he stated.

Mr. McNabb is succeeded by Cecil S. McIlhargey, who took charge of plans for the sixth annual search for talent series of shows following Sunday's meeting.

In touching on some of the highlights of the year's activities of the ACT Crippled Children's Committee, Mr. McNabb stated that proceeds from the search for talent shows were increased slightly over the previous year and the voluntary donations which supplement the fund all year round set a new record. The summer barn dances, which will continue each Friday night till October 17, are also proving popular due to the organized square dancing competitions that are conducted in each community under direction of Harold Wright.

Mr. McNabb stated that plans are under way to bring the ten winning square dancing groups to Edmonton in November for the finals, and the northern Alberta championship.

Financial assistance to eight child patients totalling $3,108 accrued during the past month were passed at the meeting. Steve McEachern has been appointed vice-chairman of the committee.

No other investment offers the same safety, high rate of interest and immediate cashability at full face value!

Everyone wants to build up reserves of saving.

They discourage wasteful spending - are better than cash in the pocket ... they can be cashed at any bank at any time,  so the cash is available at a moment's notice for special opportunities or emergencies.  What's more, Canada Savings Bonds are always cashable at full face value— the price never changes.  The new Seventh Series pays a higher rate of interest than ever before— an average of 3.44% if held to maturity. They can be paid for in cash or instalments to meet the saver's convenience. They come in denominations to meet everyone's needs.

CANADA SAVINGS BONDS

7th Series now on Sale
at Banks, Investment Dealers, or through your Company's Payroll Savings Plan

EDITORIALS

For Today and Tomorrow

This October hundreds of thousands of Canadians will buy the seventh consecutive annual issue of Canada Savings Bonds.

Through payroll savings, through banks and investment dealers, we will put out to interest millions of dollars of our collective savings.

Consciously or unconsciously, by so doing we take what military strategists term "a calculated risk."

We risk our dollars in an investment which is only as good as Canada and the Canadian dollar— no better, no worse.

True, these bonds are readily convertible to cash. True, too, they yield an attractive interest rate. They thus boast two of the major assets of a sound investment.

But even more important, when we buy Canada Savings Bonds we become shareholders in the enterprise of Canada, its government and its economy.

At a time when inflationary forces are forever feeding on the purchasing power of the wage earner's dollar, Canada Savings Bonds form a bulwark at home, in commerce and industry, and in government, a bulwark against waste and inefficiency.

With our purchase of Savings Bonds, we each have a personal stake in the buy-ability of the dollars so invested. And, as shareholders in the Canadian enterprise, we realize that the best protection for Canada, for the Canadian dollar, and for Canada Savings Bonds lies in the maximum of productive labor and the minimum of waste at all levels of our national economy.

Canada Savings Bonds are a good buy today because they are one of the best protections we have against having to say goodbye to our promising tomorrow.

Another Attack On Everest

Six Swiss Alpinists left Geneva recently by air to attempt the climbing of the world's highest mountain, Mt. Everest. In the spring of this year some of these same men reached a point less than 1,000 feet from the 29,000 foot summit.

Now, with oxygen equipment, the group expects to become the first group ever to scale the heights of the highest mountain. On this spring's attempt, the group carried American-made oxygen equipment which could only be worked when the climber halted to manipulate it.

The new equipment is German-made, and modified so that a steady flow of oxygen is fed to the climber at all times. The equipment is also lighter.

However, there is one handicap on this trip. The kingdom of Nepal has a new King, who has closed the custom gates to visitors, and permission will not be easily obtained in the future. Because the Swiss application and another from Japanese climbers, had been granted for 1952, before the new King took over direct rule of his country, these applications are expected to be honored, but the best weather of the year is already over.

Thus the Swiss party's attempt is perhaps the last hope for victory over Mt. Everest by the West. A Russian expedition is reported to be preparing to make the attempt, and if Nepal's border is closed, the Russians will have a monopoly on Everest climbing, since they alone can pass through Tibet—a country they recently occupied, which also provides access to Everest.

We must confess that mountain climbing leaves us somewhat at a loss, and though we hope the West will be able to achieve the distinction of reaching Everest's peak first, the action of the new King in Nepal—in closing his country's borders to mountain climbing expeditions—may save the lives of many climbers. And, in our opinion, lives lost climbing mountains are lives lost unnecessarily.

The Bible Today

Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding. — Proverbs, Ch. 13.

Pity The Millionaire's Son

The origins of one thousand successful men—those who'd made fortunes or contributed notably to the arts or sciences — were looked up recently. Three hundred began life on the farm; 200 were messenger boys, 200 were newsboys in their youth; 100 started work in factories; another 100 were once printers' apprentices; 50 started in lowly railroad jobs. And only 50 came from families of wealth. Don't forget to tell your children that it is for their good that you aren't leaving them a fortune.

Where "Bunk" Comes From

Henry Ford was famous for a number of things, including great wealth. But he made "bunk" famous by saying that "History is Bunk." Undoubtedly many school boys would like to dispense with the study of history as easily as Mr. Ford did, but we often use the term "bunk" or "bunkum" without realizing its source or exactly what it means.

Back in 1820, the pro-slavery and the anti-slavery factions in the House of Representatives after long and bitter argument had reached a satisfactory compromise concerning the entry of Missouri as a State in the Union. This was accomplished through the passage of the Missouri Compromise which provided that Missouri might enter the Union as a slave state but that future states formed above the line of Missouri's southern boundary should be free-soil states.

All of the members of the House wanted an immediate vote with one exception, a little known Congressman, Felix Walker, whose principal constituency was Buncombe County, North Carolina. Walker said: "I am bound to make a speech for Buncombe" to those who asked him to allow a vote to be taken.

After that speech, every time a legislator made a useless, time-wasting talk, his colleagues would shout, "Buncombe." As time went on the term was shortened to "bunk" and became a part of our language.

Latin Fascism

The difference between life in Canada and life in Argentina was clearly demonstrated recently when a dozen persons, including a newspaper writer, were arrested for allegedly celebrating the death of Senora Eva Peron.

It is said that federal police took part in raiding a vacation house, belonging to a press association, where the arrests were made. It is also said that most of those arrested were well known merchants, or government clerks.

If such a dictatorial authority existed in Canada, most of us would have been in jail several times already and many of us would not be around to read this editorial. One of the greatest differences between Canada and most of the countries of the world is the freedom with which newspaper men and others in public office attack and berate the ruling powers.

Recently, a spokesman for a group of German scientists, who had found new homes in Canada, pointed out that the custom of criticizing and belittling their public leaders is one of the more amazing and refreshing freedoms Canadians enjoy.

The danger, of course, in such a custom, is that some newspaper men and public officials may resort to false statements in an effort to discredit their administration. That is the main reason why an intelligent citizenry is necessary in the proper functioning of democracy. It is up to the individual voter to ascertain whether criticism he reads or hears is factual or partisan or emotional. In Canada, we allow the individual citizen to determine the value of criticism.

Note and Comment

Wheat clearances from Fort William during the week ending July 24th totalled nearly 9¼ million bushels, the heaviest of the season.

Voice of the People

WANTS CHANGE

Maybe my opinion doesn't count, but I still say let's sweep the Liberals out of office. Then we can look forward to something besides high taxes. Put Mr. Manning in Ottawa and there soon won't be any taxes at all.

CONVERTED TO S.C.

WANTS LESS TALK

Those gabby commentators on the radio who insist on giving us all the intimate details of the players' lives are more than I can stand. They are supposed to broadcast a ball game, but half the time they are so busy with this type of chatter that they don't even know who is at bat or who is pitching. Not long ago one of these sages even turned book reviewer, and started advising listeners what to read. Thank goodness for newspapers. At least you can turn the page.

I answered that it was.

Mrs. Adolph Boss had the misfortune to cut her finger, which had to have several stitches.

Mr. Ami Colcy of Edmonton spent several days here working on his farm and combining his crop.

Mrs. Jules Bossel made a business trip to Plamondon.

Master Arthur Varin, Jr., had the misfortune to fall and fracture his elbow. Arthur had to be taken to Edmonton to a bone specialist for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Ephrem Cote have moved into their newly-purchased home in Plamondon, and Mr. and Mrs. Evangelist Cote expect to move to town very soon.

Deepest sympathy is extended from the readers in this district to Hon. and Mrs. Lucien Maynard and family in the loss recently of Mrs. Maynard's sister, Miss Tueta Murray, of Edmonton, who passed away after a short illness in an Edmonton hospital. Miss Murray was well known in this district, as she visited here on many occasions and did several paintings of Plamondon Bay.

Deepest sympathy from all readers in the district are extended to Mr. J. A. Piquette and family. Mr. Piquette has just received news that his only sister recently passed away in Montreal.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa,

I have one little son and my husband always takes the hour after the evening meal to talk to him or read to him or sometimes plays a simple game with him. He says as he is away all day it gives him a chance to know his boy better and to enjoy him. This routine also allows me to do the dishes and tidy things up until son is ready for bed and then my husband and I can enjoy the evening together.

My sister is married to a man and they have three small children but he doesn't pay them any attention. He says nursing is woman's work and he sits and reads or listens to the radio while she struggles with the dishes and the children—getting them to bed.

Don't you think he is very selfish and inconsiderate to act this way?

MRS. J. B.

Answer:

I realize that a man who has been working hard all day is tired when he gets home in the evening and is ready to relax. But a woman who has been doing all of her work and caring for three children has also had a hard day and certainly needs a helping hand. She probably resents his attitude which doesn't make for good feeling in the home.

I really think this man is losing more than he is gaining by acting as he does. He would not only earn the gratitude of his wife, by lending a helping hand, but he would get the love and adoration of his children, if he would spare them an hour out of each day. And, after all, an hour a day is not too much for anyone to give to a child they have brought into the world.

The time spent in this manner would mean much more to this man than the hour he devotes to himself.

LOUISA.

$1 for EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Editor will pay $1.00 for every item published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." To qualify, items must be true, personal incidents Adress "Embarrassing Moments", P.O. Box 4368, South Edmonton.

This happened to me in a store at Vermilion this year. I was ready to go home and picked up my box of groceries. I also picked up, as I thought, my pair of gloves from the counter. Imagine my consternation when, as I neared the door, a man called out, "Hey! you, come back with my gloves."

I stopped and looked back. He told me angrily to give him back his gloves. I assured him rather cockily that the gloves I picked up were my own. Imagine my great embarrassment when he pointed to my bulging coat pocket and said, "Look, your gloves are in your pocket." I put my hand in and drew out my own gloves. I had quite a time convincing him I had made a mistake.

A group of us kids were on a hike. On our way back one of my friends tore his pants. That night, just as I was to take the bus to come home, I saw a guy who looked just like my friend. I said, "Did you change your pants?" When this man turned around and I noticed it wasn't my friend, was I ever embarrassed!

ALBERTA PACKING PLANTS SEND MEAT TO TROOPS

Alberta packing plants put up the majority of an order for 550,000 pounds of beef for shipment to the Commonwealth Brigade in Korea,

The Canadian Government completed the deal for the purchase of the beef in Alberta and British Columbia about a month ago without publicity.

The Government is now preparing to ship the meat overseas and may buy more for later shipments.

One plant at Calgary, Union Packing Co., and two Edmonton plants, filled most or the order with Alberta beef. Much of the beef slaughtered in B C. plants originally went to that province from Alberta as stockers and feeders.

C. A. Loest, Union manager, said it was the first time his plant had put up such an order.

The beef, frozen and up to U.S. quartermaster grades, must be carried by a Canadian ship as the U.S. foot and mouth embargo prohibits shipment of Canadian beef in U.S. vessels.

No reason was given for the lack of publicity. The meat was all bought from Alberta and West Coast producers on tender.

The 550,000 pound shipment is equivalent to the meat needs of the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade for six months.

FARM NOTES FOR ALBERTANS

ARRANGE FOR SEED NOW

There is never a better time to arrange for next year's seed than when harvest is under way. If your seed is pure as to variety and of good quality, store it carefully, advises A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture. It can then be cleaned and treated during the winter and will be ready for use when planting time arrives.

If your crop will not produce seed of good quality this year, obtain your requirements now, urges Mr. Wilson. By next Spring the best grain will have disappeared into commercial channels and second rate grain may be all that is available for seed. With around 12,000,000 acres seeded to grain crops in Alberta every year, 18,000,000 bushels of good seed is needed.

Farmers with registered seed will make sure that their seed is carefully handled and carefully housed. Those who do not grow registered seed, or who have not followed the practice of growing special seed fields, should reserve for seed that part of their crop that is cleanest, plumpest, and truest to variety. It should then be harvested with care and put away until needed.

To be sure that they will have seed over the years, many farmers carry two or three years' seed supplies ahead. There is no better insurance against a bad year than seed grain in reserve. It is not pleasant to think of crop failures, but is it wise to prepare for them.

POULTRY FLOCK APPROVAL

Flock approval is now in full swing. Approved flock owners who have not sent in their applications for this season are reminded by F. J. Higginson, acting Poultry Commissioner, that applications must be forwarded to the Poultry Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, without delay. This is essential if their flocks are to be approved in time to make arrangements for the sale of hatching eggs. Co-operation of all owners will greatly assist in speeding up the work.

Removal of all small, immature, and undesirable birds from the flock before the visit of the inspector will save both time and money. Cull birds eat expensive feed. Mr. Higginson reports that R.O.P. males in some breeds are still in short supply and arrangements should be made early for cockerels to head the flocks. Have your catching crate and equipment in good repair, disinfected, and ready for use, he advises.

DO NOT DISTURB

The survival of honey bees during the winter depends on protection against falling temperatures, a supply of honey and pollen, and a good strong colony with a young queen. The Provincial Apiarist, W. G. leMaistre, advises, however, that the work of preparing bees for winter should be completed by the middle of October. Recent tests by the Apiculture Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture have shown quite definitely that to disturb colonies after this time results in poor wintering.

Disturbance late in the fall causes the bees to become active after they have formed their winter cluster, says Mr. leMaistre. This activity induces unseasonable brood rearing. Brood rearing during the cold weather not only uses up more food than a broodless cluster, but it ages the bees rapidly. Either they do not survive the winter, or if they do pull through, their vitality in the Spring is so low that they seem unable to build up into a useful colony.

SHIPPING FEVER OF CATTLE

Dr. E. E. Ballantyne, Director of Veterinary Services, Alberta Department of Agriculture, says that Alberta cattlemen lost at least five hundred thousand dollars last year as a result of shipping fever. There is still much to be learned about this disease, he says, but we do know that lowered resistance is the main cause. When the resistance of the animal is lowered Pasturella bacteria and others take over, so that pneumonia and diarrhoea develop.

One of the first steps in dealing with disease is to find out all we can about it. Once we have this knowledge it can be recorded and passed on for general use. That is what Dr. Ballantyne has done in the new bulletin "Shipping Fever of Cattle". The conditions most likely to bring on the development of shipping fever are listed, symptoms are outlined, something is said about the changes that take place in the body tisues, and methols of control and prevention are fully explained.

Every cattleman can profit from careful reading of this bulletin. Copies may be obtained free of charge from district agriculturists or from the Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

DATES TO REMEMBER

November 14th to 22nd and November 29th to December 6th are important dates to many Albertans. These are the dates of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair at Toronto and the International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago. A. M. Wilson, Alberta's Field Crops Commissioner, points out that exhibitors from this province have always upheld the quality of Alberta produced grain by exhibiting at these big shows, and that with this year's crop there is even greater opportunity to win top premiums.

The Alberta Dept. of Agriculture again offers additional awards to prize winners, and continues to undertake shipment of samples and provide supervision of exhibits. Entries in the seed section of the Royal Winter Fair close on October 18th. For the nternational Grain and Hay Show the closing date for entries is November 10th. Anyone interested in preparing seed for either of these exhibitnons may obtain a bulletin and full information from district agriculturists or from the Field Crops Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

The prairie provinces marketed wheat to the value of $226,794,000 in the first six months of 1952. Most of the wheat sold was spring threshed.

SEED CLEANING PLANT TO BE ERECTED AT BOYLE

BOYLE—All initial ground work toward the cleaning plant has been done. The registration has taken place, and a temporary board consisting of ten members, all farmers, has been formed, with John Semenuik of Boyle as chairman, and Harry Whittney of Donatville as secretary.

An appeal to all farmers interested in this co-operative program is being made, to purchase as many shares as possible, and deposit same in trust with the Imperial Bank at Boyle. The farmer's share of this plant will cost $13,000, which is only one-third. The other two-thirds will be shared by the municipality and the provincial government.

As soon as the farmer's share is raised, arrangements will be made and location will be found for the immediate erection of this plant.

The Board appeals to all farmers in the East Half of the M.D. of Athabasca and the West part of the L.I.D., to support this program, which is for the benefit of the district as a whole. All shares will be sold at $25.00 per share, and will be kept in a trust account until such time as sufficient money has been raised to carry on with the work planned.

The Board wants to get the ball rolling, and make Boyle and district, a Free of Weeds District, by buying several shares today for the seed cleaning plant tomorrow.

Wind Causes Havoc In Fields, On Farms

BON ACCORD—The windstorm of Thursday, Oct. 2 caused considerable damage around the district.

On the farm of I. Kreway, racks were overturned in field where threshing was in progress. One load of sheaves landed on top of the running tractor. It took some frantic pitching by the crew to shut it off. Luckily a serious fire didn't result.

Lac La Biche News Briefs

On Monday a birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holdis in honor of Mrs. Holdis. A large number of ladies attended, and Mrs. Holdis was the recipient of a beautiful chenille bedspread. Mr. and Mrs. Holdis are the parents of the famous Grassland triplets.

Ralph Kritze is doing some fall plowing for Nick Semenchuk.

Joe Stepaniuk has purchased a new 1-ton truck, and is busy hauling his grain to elevators.

A mysterious flickering light has been seen for some time a few miles north of Grassland. Investigation revealed that a well, drilled by the Seismograph crews, is now emitting gas, and the fumes somehow became ignited. The well is now beginning to "crater", and it is felt that steps should be taken by the oil company responsible to correct the situation.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Chambers visited the city on Thursday.

Grain threshing is practically completed in this district. Some grass seed remaining to be threshed, and fall plowing is in full swing.

Francis Garnier is making steady progress in his work on the new addition to the school. The new room is expected to be finished before the cold weather arrives.

Councillor Derko attended the regular Municipal meeting at Meanook on Thursday. It is rumored that a greatly increased government grant will be available next year for the grading and gravelling of district roads. This year there has been some gravelling around the hamlet, and several miles of road has been gravelled north from the highway to Spruce Valley and district.

Miss Schirmacher, one of the teachers at Grassland School, feels more content now that her residence has been hooked up to the light and power system. Dale Mellott was busy on Sunday connecting and disconnecting the wires around the hamlet.

St. Nicholas Returns To Headquarters

LAC LA BICHE—The Sunday school van, "St. Nicholas." which has been on missionary work throunout the deanery of this part of the diocese, has returned to headquarters at Athabasca.

The St. Paul's Scouts and Wolf Cubs have commenced their fall program and will meet every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. A wonderful week-end was spent at the Oldtimers' Camp at Bondiss last week and the boys had quite an experience.
